

Key Findings - By Region

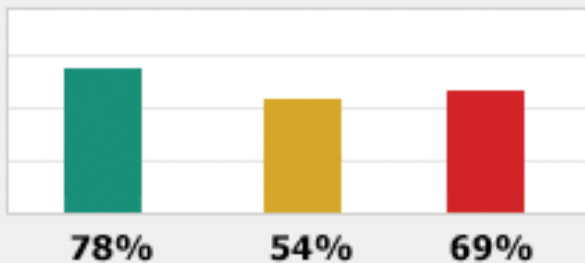

View findings by region:

Southwest USA

Southwest USA

Companies in the southwest USA are clearly mobile, with the highest percentage of businesses reporting favorable work from home policies of any region in the 2005 Sage Software Business Minds Survey. That fact may be a contributor to another: While business owners in this region put in an average of 53 hours a week, right near the North American average of 54 hours, they reported working every weekend more frequently than any other region.

- Companies in southwest USA likely to allow home workers
- Companies in southeast USA likely to allow home workers
- Overall average likely to allow home workers